Asian Art Museum of San Francisco. 1 Paperback(s), 2004. soft. Book Condition: New. Born in Shanghai in the moment before China's communist revolution and constrained to paint as a "worker artist" during the Cultural Revolution, while carrying on his development in secret Li Huayi is a brilliant and prolific painter who has become one of China's most influential contemporary artists. Indeed, this catalogue of his subtle yet dramatic works explores what it means to be a "contemporary artist," a question at the center of Li's work, informed by both Eastern and Western art history. His superb landscapes seen here in 36 color plates (many stretching across two pages) and 24 additional figures suggest the thousand-year traditions of the Northern Song dynasty while also subverting those conventions. 126.
