Cotton Mather The following is the substance of an article published in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, for April, 1863, written by John Ward Dean, Esq., of Boston: A century ago no poetry was more popular in New England than Wigglesworth s Day of Doom. Francis Jenks, Esq., in an article in the Christian Examiner for Nov., 1828, speaks of it as a work which was taught our fathers with their catechisms, and which many an aged person with whom we are acquainted can still repeat, though they may not have met with a copy since they were in leading strings; a work that was hawked about the country, printed on sheets like common ballads; and, in fine, a work which fairly represents the prevailing, theology of New England at the time it was written, and which Mather thought might, perhaps,...
